

Paulina Chau

Associate

PChau@ggfirm.com

Ph. 310-201-7548

Fax 310-553-0687

Paulina is an Associate in the firm's Employment Department.

Paulina's practice focuses on employment litigation and counseling. She defends employers in all stages of employment litigation including class action and single plaintiff wage and hour lawsuits and in harassment, discrimination, retaliation, wrongful termination, misclassification, and breach of contract claims. She advises clients on matters ranging from pre-litigation disputes, employment agreements, workplace policies and procedures, and handbooks.

She earned her J.D. from UCLA School of Law.

Bar Admissions

- California

Education

- University of California, Los Angeles School of Law (J.D., 2021)
- University of California, Los Angeles (B.A., cum laude, 2014)

Insights

June 27, 2024

7 Ways Employers Can Chill Their Wage And Hour Risks This Summer

HR.com

The Laboring Oar® Blog

The Laboring Oar® is Greenberg Glusker's employment blog that provides the latest employment and labor law trends and updates to help clients remain informed in an ever-changing, dynamic world.

November 1, 2023

Protected Paid Sick Leave Increases to Five Days Per Year Under California State Law

With the stated purpose of encouraging sick employees to stay home to stop the spread of COVID and other contagious diseases in the workplace, California Governor Newsom signed SB 616, expanding the state's Healthy Workplaces, Healthy Families Act of...

November 1, 2023

California Employers Prohibited from Discriminating Against Applicants and Employees for Off-Duty Cannabis Use

Governor Newsom signed AB 2188, which amends the state's Fair Employment and Housing Act ("FEHA") to prohibit discrimination based on off-the-job cannabis use. AB 2188 prohibits most employers from discriminating against a person in hiring, termination, or setting conditions...